

FEDERAL AGENTS ON KU KLUX TRAIL, DAUGHERTY SAYS

Attorney General May Call Chief of Invisible
Empire to D. C.

Attorney General Daugherty announced yesterday that he may call high officials of the Ku Klux Klan here for interrogation. His decision will be determined by the outcome of the Federal investigation of the Klan now in progress.

Director Burns, of the Bureau of Investigation, has been instructed to set agents at work on an investigation of the Klan's organization.

The Attorney General said the Department of Justice has authority to summon anyone.

The Attorney General said that any criminal prosecutions could, for the most part, be matters of State law unless there had been violations of Federal statutes through the use of the mails to defraud.

No Need of Klan.
There is no need in this country, Daugherty said, for vigilance organizations. The country does not need, he added, any self-constituted organization to define and enforce the laws for American citizens. It has, he contended, a well-organized Department of Justice to enforce the Federal laws and well-organized State authorities to maintain the laws of the several States.

References to the Klan were made in the Senate yesterday afternoon by Senator Watson, of Georgia, and Senator Stanley. The matter came up in connection with the question of whether or not Lord Baltimore favored or disfavored religious tolerance.

Attacks Lord Baltimore.
The matter was brought up during the speech of Senator Shields in opposition to the pension bill and wine bill by Watson, of Georgia, who intimated that Lord Baltimore was intolerant.

"I am here," declared Stanley, "whether it be the Sterling bill or whether it be an attempt to lessen the right to worship God according to the dictates of my conscience—I am here to fight intolerance, whether it whets its knife and lights its torch in a Ku Klux Klan camp in Georgia, or whether in Western Ohio it assumes the form of these miserable general warrants, the spawn, the hate, loathsome of the star chamber. Let it come in any shape or any form; I am here to fight political and religious intolerance."

G. O. P. WOMEN AIDED
"SENATOR" BURSUM
Women of the Republican National Committee express satisfaction at the election of Holm O. Bursum as Senator from New Mexico. They say his expected majority was largely due to women's assistance.

Round-ups were in progress in New Mexico, and Senator Bursum, himself a stock-raiser, addressed the men of many of these outfits. He was assisted by Miss Adelaide Thurston, of Duluth, Minn., a speaker for the national committee; Miss Betsy Edwards, of Shelbyville, Ind., organizer for the national committee; Mrs. A. B. Stroup, of Albuquerque, vice chairman of the Republican State committee; Mrs. Frank Dodson, of Des Moines, Iowa; Mrs. D. McCarter, of Topeka, Kans.; and Mrs. O'Brien, a Spanish-American native of New Mexico, who assisted in speaking to Spanish audiences.

What Congress Did Yesterday.

SENATE.
(Proceedings of September 22.)
Met at noon and adjourned at 5:20 until noon today.
Debate on Stanley amendment compromise in anti-beer bill opened by Senator Shields, who declared that sacrifice of the people's rights against search and seizure without warrant would be a dangerous policy, much as he favored prohibition enforcement. CASSELL, WEALTHY BRITON, IS DEAD

Financial "Angel" of King
Edward Started at the Bottom.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Sir Ernest Cassell, one of the most prominent financial figures of Great Britain, is dead after a career full of romance.

Of common German birth, Cassell began work in Liverpool when he was 16 years of age, for 12 shillings a week. He leaves a fortune estimated at some $50,000,000, all of which goes to his granddaughter, Edwina Ashley, 20 years old. Miss Ashley thus becomes probably the richest woman in England. She is described as a rare type of pure English beauty.

In his lifetime Sir Ernest Cassell gave away millions to hospitals and other charitable institutions. It has always been rumored that he paid a large portion of the late King Edward's debts upon the latter's ascendancy to the throne.

Cassell was born at Cologne, but swore loyalty to England at the outbreak of the war. He was best known as friend and financial mentor to King Edward, whom he helped make big money in the stock market, and was such a regular visitor to the royal palaces that he became known as "Wind-sor Cassell."

King Edward was godfather to Edwina, hence her name.

Mother Wins Freedom For Son Who Struck Her

William Javins, a driver, pleaded guilty yesterday in Police Court to a charge of striking his mother. He blamed his act on drunkenness.

"I'll never drink again as long as I live, Judge," said the prisoner. The mother, who had preferred the charge, asked for leniency. The boy was the best in the world, when sober, she declared, and if he would give his promise she believed he would keep it.

Judge McMahon placed him on probation for one year under bond of $200.

Have Thief Who Stole Lot of Shoes, Police Say

The theft of two dozen pairs of shoes belonging to Robert Gerberich, local shoe dealer, from a freight car in the Potomac yards last Saturday, was cleared up yesterday, according to the police, with the arrest of Thomas overall, colored, 18 years old, of 1522 T street northwest, who is being held under a grand larceny charge at the First precinct station. The arrest was made by Detectives Cox and Vermillion.

consideration of the conference report after a clash for the right of way with Senator Penrose, who is in charge of the tax bill, defended the conference compromise as not serious enough to justify the rights of individuals under the Fourth amendment to the Constitution. Senators of the agricultural "block" were notified that they would not permit legislation for the relief of farmers to be sidetracked.

Senators Gerry and Walsh proposed several amendments to the tax revision bill, providing for graduated rates on incomes.

Vice President Coolidge laid before the Senate communications from army officials, giving lists of soldiers and officers who died in France and were to be reinterred in Arlington National Cemetery.
